

Environmental Liability Insurance

Farmers face increasing environmental liabilities

The environmental liability regime has become more stringent with the implementation of new EU-wide regulations in 2009. Many still believe that their public liability policy will cover most of their environmental risk. The reality is that they may be dangerously exposed. Standard public liability policies were never designed to cover the range of environmental liabilities farmers now face.